September 15, 2008

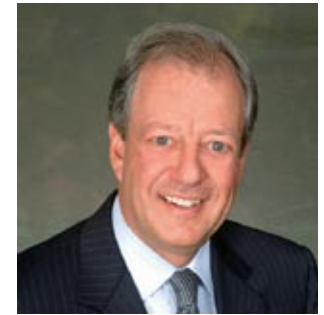

To the Honorable David A. Paterson and Members of the Legislature:

I hereby submit the New York Banking Department annual report for the calendar year 2007, pursuant to Section 43 of the Banking Law.

In 2007, the New York State Banking Department regulated more than 3,500 financial entities providing services in New York State including: domestic and foreign banks, mortgage bankers and brokers; money transmitters, budget planners, check cashers, licensed lenders, sales finance companies, safe deposit companies, and premium finance agencies. The total assets of the depository institutions supervised by the Banking Department exceeded $2.2 trillion.

During 2007, communities and individuals across the state faced increased economic hardship amid the developing mortgage and credit crisis. There were over 57,000 foreclosure filings on almost 39,000 homes across the state in 2007, a 10 percent increase over 2006 and a 55 percent increase over 2005. While New York was not one of the hardest hit states, there are areas across the state that are disproportionately impacted. In 2007, Queens and Brooklyn combined accounted for approximately 32 percent of the total foreclosure filings, while Nassau and Suffolk counties combined accounted for approximately 24 percent. But the impact is not limited to the downstate area, other heavily impacted areas across the state included Monroe, Erie and Albany counties.

In response to the increasing foreclosures impacting New Yorkers, the Banking Department initiated significant efforts in 2007 to address the crisis through partnerships with other state agencies, outreach efforts, and legislative changes. Early in 2007, the Halt Abusive Lending Transactions (HALT) Task Force was formed by the Governor and charged with providing a coordinated state government response in a time of turmoil.

As chair of the HALT Task Force, I am proud of all of the work that we have accomplished since its inception including: introducing new loan products, hosting public forums to assist homeowners in avoiding unnecessary foreclosure, awarding grant money to non-profit agencies for counseling, and participating in the development of a comprehensive legislative package that addresses the current crisis and puts laws in place to avoid a similar crisis in the future.

While New York was successful in responding quickly to this crisis, the Supreme Court Watters v. Wachovia decision in 2007 upholding federal preemption, is likely to impede local efforts to respond quickly and with innovative measures going forward. It is likely to have an adverse impact on the federal-state balance and the dual banking system and threatens to further undermine the vital role states like New York have historically played in the area of consumer protection.

In light of New York's vibrant financial markets and position as a world leader in the financial services industry, this is a critical issue for us. The volatility of today's market and the threat to the dual banking system highlight the importance of the Banking Department's focus on modernizing the financial regulatory environment, both on the state and federal level. It is imperative that we reassess our regulatory systems to ensure that our financial institutions remain safe and sound, and that we protect consumers.

It is with sincere gratitude I commend the commitment and professionalism of the Banking Department staff as we successfully navigate through a volatile time in the industries we regulate.

Sincerely,

OVERVIEW

Established in 1851, the New York State Banking Department is the oldest bank regulatory agency in the nation. The Banking Department's legislative mandate is to ensure the safe and sound conduct of business under its supervision, to conserve assets, to prevent unsound and destructive competition, to maintain public confidence in the banking system, and to protect the public interest and the interests of depositors, creditors and shareholders. The Department's mission is to allow the financial industry to expand and prosper through judicious regulation and vigilant supervision, to educate and protect consumers while promoting economic growth and ensuring that the financial system is safe and accessible to all.

The Banking Department is structured in five key supervisory Divisions, supported by a number of core support functions including legal, finance, operations, communications and administration.

1. Foreign and Wholesale Banks:

The foreign banking community in New York State continues to include many of the world's largest global banking enterprises. With 101 foreign branches, agencies and representative offices accounting for more than $1.6 trillion in assets under supervision, the Banking Department continues to be the primary regulator of U.S. branches and agencies of foreign banking organizations and supervises more than 80 percent of the nationwide assets held by such entities. Through the maintenance of its established close working relationships with foreign banks' home country country banking supervisory authorities, the Banking Department continues to improve its understanding and appreciation of the unique environment in which State-licensed foreign banks operate. In 2007, the Banking Department issued three new licenses to foreign banking organizations including China Merchants Bank Co. Ltd., Industrial and Commercial Bank of China, Ltd., and State Bank of India.

2. Community and Regional Banks:

The Community and Regional Banks Division holds supervisory responsibility for community-focused domestic commercial banks, savings banks, savings and loan associations, and holding companies for these institutions. The Division also supervises credit unions, safe deposit companies and thrift institution-sponsored charitable foundations. At year-end 2007, there were 146 state-chartered banks, credit unions, safe deposit companies and thrifts operating in the state, with combined assets of more than $3.6 trillion. In 2007, the Banking Department issued nine new licenses to community and regional banks, including Alma Bank, CheckSpring Bank, Flushing Commercial Bank, Gold Coast Bank, Hanover Community Bank, NANB Interim Bank, Savoy Bank, USNY Bank, and The Westchester Bank.

3. Mortgage Banking:

At year end 2007, the Banking Department regulated 278 mortgage bankers and 2,413 mortgage brokers. Throughout 2007 the mortgage industry felt the credit and liquidity crunch as the mortgage crisis expanded beyond the subprime market, foreclosures increased, and the availability of credit was limited. A number of mortgage bankers and brokers went out of business. As the mortgage industry reacted to these changes, the Banking Department increased examinations of mortgage bankers and brokers and stepped up its regulatory oversight with the introduction of the Nationwide Mortgage Licensing System (NMLS) for Mortgage Loan Originators (MLOs), adoption of guidance on nontraditional lending and involvement in the development of new legislation.

In addition to adapting guidance issued by the Conference of State Bank Supervisors (CSBS), the Banking Department worked closely with CSBS on preparing for the implementation of the NMLS for MLOs. This system, which went into effect in January 2008, allows the Department to enroll individual mortgage originators, and not just the firms where they are employed. It is anticipated that over 20,000 originators will be processed before January 2010, including background checks, fingerprinting, and credit checks. This system will help to curb mortgage abuse by making it more difficult for bad actors to evade enforcement and reopen shop simply by migrating across state lines.

4. Licensed Financial Services:

The Licensed Financial Services Division (LFSD) supervises money transmitters, check cashers, budget planners, licensed lenders, sales finance companies, and premium finance agencies. At year end 2007, the Banking Department had regulatory oversight of 23 licensed lenders, 57 budget planners, 106 sales finance companies, 75 money transmitters, 60 premium finance agencies and 205 check cashers.

While money service businesses (money transmitters and check cashers) have remained stable and a source of alternative financial services to consumers underserved by traditional bankers, they continue to experience difficulty in identifying banks willing to provide banking services to them.

At year end 2007, 93 percent of money transmitters and 80 percent of check cashers were serviced by federal-chartered banks, while only seven percent of money transmitters and 20 percent of check cashers were serviced by state-chartered banks.

Out of the 30 banks servicing money transmitters, 27 are federal-chartered banks and three are state chartered. In the check casher business, two banks hold over 95 percent of the market.

5. Consumer Services:

The Banking Department's Consumer Services Division is responsible for performing consumer compliance and fair lending examinations and administering the Community Reinvestment Act (CRA). In 2007, the Division conducted 37 CRA exams, 52 fair lending exams, and 47 compliance exams.

Historically, states like New York have been zealous in protecting consumers. Our anti-predatory lending law introduced in 2000 was among the first in the nation and in 2007 New York was one of the first states to recognize the subprime storm clouds gathering on the horizon. However, a series of court decisions over the past 30 years, including Watters v. Wachovia, has essentially hamstrung states' ability to protect consumers from what some states have defined as abusive lending practices by lenders, by limiting the enforceability of our laws against federally-chartered institutions doing business in New York State.

The Consumer Services Division also manages the Consumer Help Unit. In 2007, the Unit received over 3,800 written complaints, of which more than 2,000 were mortgage related, and over 76,000 telephone inquires, of which more than 22,000 were mortgage related. While written complaints in 2007 increased slightly over the 2006 numbers, the telephone inquires received increased by almost 10,000 calls. Staff responding to consumer questions and complaints through the Department's toll-free consumer number (1-877-BANK NYS) can handle calls in English, Spanish, Russian and Cantonese.

In addition to functional areas that support each of the supervisory Divisions, such as human resources, legal, operations, communications and administration, the Banking Department has two additional Divisions with very specific missions and charters: the Criminal Investigations Bureau and the Holocaust Claims Processing Office.

Criminal Investigations Bureau:

The Department's Criminal Investigations Bureau (CIB) provides specialized investigatory capabilities with respect to allegations of criminal activity involving the financial industry and works cooperatively with law enforcement agencies at the local, state and federal levels. CIB houses a team of examiners who specialize in compliance with anti-money laundering (AML) laws, such as the Bank Secrecy Act (BSA). This Division identifies and mitigates threats to the financial industry stemming from AML and terrorist financing.

Actions taken in 2007 included: a 16-count indictment for alleged enterprise corruption, identify theft and mortgage fraud; felony convictions for the principals of a check cashing company; and a written agreement for alleged AML violations. For a full list of enforcement actions in 2007, see page 54. Numerous additional cases initiated in 2007 continued through 2008.

In 2007, a dedicated Mortgage Fraud Unit was formed within CIB and the Unit has already had an impact on fraud prevention. The unit continues to actively work with local, state, and federal law enforcement officials to prosecute mortgage fraud cases across the state, and has already been recognized as a resource for expertise in this specialty. They have spoken at numerous national conferences, forums and gatherings of District Attorneys, and provide mortgage fraud-specific training for judges.

Holocaust Claims:

The Holocaust Claims Processing (HCPO) was created in 1997 to help Holocaust victims and their heirs recover assets deposited in banks; unpaid proceeds of insurance policies issued by European insurers; and artworks that were lost, looted or sold under duress. The Office accepts claims for Holocaust-era looted assets from anywhere in the world and charges no fees for its services.

From its inception through December 2007, the HCPO has responded to more than 13,000 inquiries and received claims from 4,775 individuals from 45 states and 38 countries.

The claims of 3,898 individuals remain open. The HCPO has successfully resolved the cases of 877 individuals. Resolution includes restoration of property, acceptance of an offer of compensation or a finding that the assets claimed had been previously compensated via a post-war restitution or compensation proceeding.

The combined total of offers extended to HCPO claimants for bank, insurance, and other asset losses amounts to $114.7 million.

Banking Development Districts

Since its creation in 1997, the Banking Development (BDD) Program continues to be an important part of the Banking Department's efforts in economic development and ensuring New Yorkers have access to traditional banking services. In 2004, the Banking Department formed the Banking Development Working Group to develop an Enriched BDD program, to continue to encourage the establishment of bank branches in areas where there is a demonstrated need for banking services and to allow the unbanked and underbanked to become a part of the financial mainstream. At year end 2007, 35 BDDs had been designated across the state, with branches designated in 2007 in Brooklyn, Manhattan, and upstate.

The Banking Board was established by and derives its authority from Sections 13 and 14 of the New York State Banking Law. It is a quasi-legislative body, whose members serve without pay. It promulgates regulations of both a general and specific nature for the conduct of banking and financial services in the State of New York. Certain types of applications must also be approved by the Banking Board. The Banking Board possesses broad powers that affect many areas of banking supervision.

The Banking Board is composed of 17 members. The Superintendent of Banks serves as Chairman of the Board and Executive Head. The other 16 members of the Board are appointed for three-year terms by the Governor, subject to confirmation by the Senate. Of these 16 members, eight are public members, while the other eight must have banking experience obtained from various segments of the banking industry.

Part 1 New York Law Changes Affecting Banks

Chapter 322 (S.4392) – Streamlined Wild Card. Added a new section 12-a to the Banking Law and amended section 42 of the Banking Law. Sections 14-g and 14-h of the Banking Law were repealed. It became effective on September 1, 2007.

Chapter 322 modified the Banking Department's "Wild Card" authority which is intended to help New York financial institutions compete with their nationally chartered counterparts in regard to powers and activities. Such authority also was broadened to include state-chartered credit unions and licensed agencies and branches of foreign banking corporations.

Under new section 12-a, the process for granting parity with federal banking institutions provides that:

1. Under section 12-a, subdivision 3, a banking institution may apply to the Superintendent to exercise a federally permitted power.
2. Under section 12-a, subdivision 4, the Superintendent may recommend that the Banking Board adopt a resolution allowing banking institutions to exercise a federally permitted power.

New section 12-a also incorporated the consumer protection pieces of the former "wild card" law relating to the sale of insurance by banking institutions.

Section 42 of the Banking Law was amended to provide that applications or recommendations for wild card powers are to be posted in the Banking Department's weekly bulletin.

The effective date of Chapter 3 of the Laws of 1997 was amended to extend for two years the provisions of sections 2123 (e) and (f) and section 2502 (a), (d) and (e) of the Insurance Law, regarding consumer protections governing the sale of insurance by banking institutions.

This Chapter further provided that the "Wild Card" authority continued to be subject to a two-year sunset provision.

Chapter 553 (S.5620B) – Mortgage Loan Originators. Chapter 553 makes a number of clarifying amendments to Article 12-E of the Banking Law, added in 2006. It became effective on January 1, 2008.

Throughout Article 12-E, the term "registered mortgage loan originator" was changed to "authorized mortgage loan originator."

The definition of "mortgage loan originating" in section 599-b (2) was revised to ensure consistency with the provisions of Article 12-D.

Section 599-b (4) was amended to change the definition of "education courses." The reference to specific trade organizations was deleted. Education courses may now be offered by any national, New York or other state trade association.

Section 599-c (1) was amended to correct the effective date of the authorization requirements to January 1, 2008, which is the same effective date of the original 2006 law.

Section 599-c (2) was amended to provide that the standards applied in considering an MLO's character and fitness shall be the same as those applied in considering license or registration applications by mortgage bankers and brokers. It was also amended to specify the process for the Superintendent to determine the annual authorization fee.

A new subdivision 7 was added to section 599-c to provide that any general assessment upon mortgage bankers and mortgage brokers to fund the Department's expenses for administering this program are to be levied only on those bankers and brokers that employ authorized MLOs. This new subdivision also permits a third party to process MLO applications for the Department.

The suspension and revocation provisions in section 599-g applicable to MLOs also were expanded.

Chapter 114 (A.6490) – Foreign ATM Access Fees. Chapter 114 added a new section 9-u to the Banking Law. It became effective on October 1, 2007.

It authorized both New York banks and non-bank ATM operators to charge fees on ATM customers who access foreign bank accounts.

Chapter 114 leveled the playing field for ATM withdrawals from domestic and foreign bank accounts.

Chapter 154 (A.8365) – Banking Technical Corrections. Chapter 154 made various technical corrections to the Banking Law and the Real Property Actions and Proceedings Law. It became effective on July 3, 2007.

Chapter 154 made the following technical corrections to the Banking Law and the Real Property Actions and Proceedings Law:

Amended section 341(6) of the Banking Law to delete a redundant sentence which related to the failure to approve or deny a temporary supplemental license of a licensed lender.

Section 605(11) of the Banking Law was amended to ensure that liquidation provisions applied to a foreign bank whose license has been “surrendered.” This section also changed two references to foreign banking corporations so that they properly refer to foreign banking corporations licensed pursuant to Article 2.

Section 206 of the Banking Law also was amended to change a reference to foreign banking corporations so that it properly refers to foreign banking corporations licensed pursuant to Article 2.

Section 591-a (3) of the Banking Law was amended to make technical corrections in regard to certain references to mortgage brokers.

Sections 2, 14, 42, 1001 and 7002 of the Banking Law were amended to eliminate all references to “industrial banks.” Section 5008(3) of the Banking Law was amended to delete an outdated cross-reference to Section 294(6), which no longer exists.

Section 1303(1) of the Real Property Actions and Proceedings Law was amended to clarify that the notice requirements of this Section apply only in the case of mortgage foreclosure actions involving residential real property consisting of owner-occupied one-to-four family dwellings.

Chapter 212 (S.4782) – Open-End Loan Fee Extension. Chapter 212 amended the effective date of Chapter 223 of the Laws of 1996 which amended section 351 of the Banking Law. It became effective on July 3, 2007.

Chapter 212 amended the effective date of Chapter 223 of the laws of 1996 to extend, for an additional two years (until June 30, 2009), the authority of licensed lenders to charge annual fees on open-end personal loans.

Chapter 552 ((S.5618A.)) – High Cost Home Loan Ceiling. Chapter 552 amended section 6-l (1) of the Banking Law. This Chapter became effective on October 14, 2007.

This Chapter increased the principal amount of a home loan for purposes of the high-cost home loan statute to the Fannie Mae conforming loan limit. Previously, the threshold was the lower of $300,000 or the conforming loan limit.

Chapter 274 (A.9159) – Community Bank Deposit Program. Chapter 274 amended sections 85, 86, and 87 of Article 2-C of the Banking Law. It became effective on July 18, 2007.

It converted the New York State Charter Deposit Program into the Community Bank Deposit Program.

Chapter 274 expanded the community bank deposits program to include federally-chartered banks that are headquartered in New York, have a satisfactory CRA rating and meet certain economic criteria that may be established by the New York State Comptroller or the Commissioner of Taxation and Finance.

Non-Banking Law Chapters of Interest

Chapter 93 (S.6335) – Real Estate Investment Trust (REIT)/Regulated Investment Company Taxation Technical Corrections. Chapter 93 amended subdivisions 5 and 7 of section 209 of the Tax Law and section 1452 of the same law. It became effective on June 29, 2007.

Chapter 93 amended provisions of the Fiscal Year 2007 – 2008 Budget that inadvertently left several banks with the potential for taxation of 140% of the dividends from their REITs.

This Chapter also amended Section 1452 of the Tax Law to provide that any bank acquisition that was completed on or before January 3, 2007 should, for tax purposes, be treated as an acquisition that occurred before January 1, 2007.

Chapter 94 (S.6336) – REIT Taxation for 9-A Corporations. Chapter 94 amended subdivisions 5 and 7 of the Tax Law. It became effective on January 1, 2007.

Chapter 94 corrected the overlap problem, also addressed by Chapter 93, which existed for Article 9-A (General Corporation) taxpayers.

This technical amendment excluded publicly traded REITS and RICS from the requirement of combined reporting. The 2007-2008 Budget, as adopted, unintentionally created taxation on these companies.

Chapter 96 (S.6354) – Article 9-A Taxation. Chapter 96 amended section 1452 of the Tax Law and similar provisions of the Administrative Code of the City of New York. It became effective on June 29, 2007.

Chapter 96 was a technical amendment to the FY 2007 – 2008 Budget which permitted certain taxpayers to elect taxation either under Article 9-A or Article 32.

Chapter 186 (S.3575-A) – Community Development Financial Institutions. Chapter 186 amended the Urban Development Corporation Act. It became effective on July 3, 2007.

Chapter 186 provided for the creation of a community development financial institutions program modeled on a similar federal program.

Chapter 229 (A.8799) – SONYMA Extension. Chapter 229 amended Chapter 915 of the Laws of 1992 and sections 2404 and 2407 of the Public Authorities Law. It became effective on July 9, 2007.

Chapter 229 extends the effectiveness of the State of New York Mortgage Agency (SONYMA) and increases its authority.

Specifically, it increases SONYMA's authority to issue new money tax-exempt bonds as well as new money taxable bonds and authorizes SONYMA to blend the proceeds of tax exempt bonds with taxable bonds. It also grants SONYMA authority to reimburse its mortgagors for any Federal recapture liability they may incur in connection with SONYMA-financed mortgage loans.

Chapter 458 (S.4210) – Foreclosure Notice. Chapter 458 added a new section 1320 to the Real Property Actions and Proceedings Law and amended section 3215 of the Civil Practice Law and Rules. This Chapter became effective on August 1, 2007.

It requires an additional notice clearly stating the consequences to a homeowner of failing to respond to a notice of foreclosure.

Chapter 458 requires a boldface notice, written in plain English, to accompany a summons commencing a residential foreclosure action. This document provides an explicit warning that if the defendant does not come to court and answer, his or her real property could be taken. It informs the recipient that the entire balance of the mortgage loan is now due, and recommends that the defendant immediately engage an attorney or otherwise seek legal representation.

Chapter 41 (A.7950) – Student Loan Reform. Chapter 41 amended the Education Law by adding a new Article 13-b. It became effective on November 25, 2007.

Chapter 41, the Student Lending Accountability, Transparency and Enforcement Act of 2007, contains prohibitions on payments by lenders to colleges based on the number and amount of student loans steered to the lenders. It also imposed restrictions on both the offering and receipt of certain trips and other gifts by lenders to college officials. Chapter 41 also limited certain practices by student loan call centers and established guidelines affecting advisory board compensation and preferred lender lists. It also mandated additional disclosure requirements with respect to such lists.

Part 2 Banking Regulation Changes

Amendments to new Part 6.8 of the General Regulations of the Banking Board – adopted effective January 1, 2007

The amendments make it clear that the notice to account holders which is called for by the guidelines of the federal banking agencies regarding overdraft protection programs must be separately given and be “clear and conspicuous” in cases in which bounce protection will be applied to a new or existing account.

Amendments to Part 76 of the General Regulations of the Banking Board – Compliance With Community Reinvestment Act Requirements – adopted effective January 10, 2007

The amendments conform Part 76 to changes in the federal Community Reinvestment Act regulations.

Amendments to Part 322 of the Superintendent’s Regulations – Pledge of Assets and Maintenance of Assets By Licensed Foreign Banking Corporations In New York – adopted effective January 24, 2007

The amendments reduce the asset pledge requirement for foreign banks with “well-rated” foreign branches and agencies and allow all foreign banks to pledge a wider variety of assets.

Amendments to Part 400.5 of the Superintendent’s Regulations – Licensed Cashers of Checks – Depositing of Checks, etc. – adopted effective February 28, 2007

The amendments permit licensed check cashers to maintain bank accounts with banking institutions or their branches located inside or outside New York state.

Amendments to Part 73 of the General Regulations of the Banking Board – Electronic Facilities – adopted effective May 23, 2007

The amendments streamline the application and approval process for banking institutions when establishing electronic facilities.
