SIR WILLIAM JOHNSON PAPERS

General Index

PREFACE

The 13 volumes of the Sir William Johnson Papers are a rich storehouse of historical data for the period of the 18th century (1738-1774) which they cover. Unfortunately, the circumstances of their publication, some in mutilated form, and in three chronological series, have been a barrier to their general use. There have been repeated demands for an index, which hopefully may now be satisfied.

The appearance of this Index marks the completion of a publishing venture which has spanned more than a century. The first Johnson manuscripts were acquired by New York State in 1800 (see "History of the Manuscripts," I:xiii). By 1866, 26 volumes of manuscripts formed the basis of the collection of the New York State Library. In 1849-50, a number of these documents were published in volumes II and IV of the Documentary History of the State of New York, edited by E. B. O'Callaghan. Further official letters and documents of Johnson were published in volumes VI, VII, VIII, and X of Documents Relative to the Colonial History of the State of New York, also edited by O'Callaghan. The first State Historian, appointed in 1895, began editing the documents for publication. He had these in galley proof in 1907, when his successor stopped the project, on the grounds that the editing did not meet scholarly standards. Before the work was resumed, the Capitol fire of 1911 had seriously damaged or destroyed many of the manuscripts, and publication was further delayed.

The first volume of the Sir William Johnson Papers appeared in 1921. By the time volume VIII appeared in 1933, enough new material was found in other libraries to justify a new series, begun with volume IX in 1939. Many of the gaps due to loss by fire could now be filled with copies from other major collections, and volumes X, XI, and XII were planned. While these were being edited and published (1951-57), a sufficient number of important Johnson papers were discovered to justify the publication of a supplementary volume, XIII, in 1962.

Now, with the publication of the index, the series which is the fruit of the labors of many dedicated scholars, and thousands of hours of painstaking labor, comes to a close.

Users of the Johnson Papers need to be cautioned, however, that this series and its index do not cover the many Johnson documents which were published in the Documentary History or in Documents Relative to the Colonial History; it was the policy of the editors from the beginning not to reprint these papers. Many are listed in Day's Calendar of Sir William Johnson Manuscripts (1909), and are noted in the first chronological series. They are also included in the Chronological List in Volume XIII.

As far as possible this is a topical, or subject, index and seeks to classify references in their most useable form. Some arbitrary decisions had to be made in choosing among multiple spellings of Indian names, and in limiting cross-references. A great effort was made properly to identify persons and places where references were general or vague, and here some errors may have crept in, as they have in the general editing. Yet, the wisdom of the course followed, we hope may be proved in the use which is made of the index, and, for this, we trust it will be found adequate.

The laborious and monumental task of the indexer was performed by Mrs. Roberta Blaché, to whom the editor wishes to pay high tribute for her skill, industry, and patience. He is confident that many will echo his thanks for her accomplishment.
